

About TetraOS

TetraOS is an open-source operating system running on the Linux kernel. TetraOS is meant to be a stable and user-friendly Linux distribution for Linux beginners. Your experience with TetraOS is meant to be customizable, fluid, and secure.

TetraOS Team

Design Team

→ Kaleb Bravo, Head of Design

Programming Team

→ Carson Schildt, Head of Programming

TetraOS Software

Parent Company

→ Skyscope Corporation, run by Kaleb Bravo

Open Source Software Used

→ Linux Kernel

TetraOS Features + More

Application Log

*Application Names not final

Application Name*	Type	Included?	Other Notes
Settings	Settings	Yes	Includes system, personalization, users/files, and PC health categories
Camera	Camera, Image and Video Viewer	Yes	N/A
Mozilla Firefox	Web Browser	Yes	Made by Mozilla, Linux standard
Write	Rich Text Editor	Yes	All formatting styles, custom fonts, tables, charts, printing ability, etc.
PDF Viewer	PDF Viewer	Optional	Markups, printing ability, etc.
Calculator	Calculator	Yes	Basic, scientific, graphing, measurement converters, etc.
Calendar	Calendar	Yes	Custom events, etc.
Clock	Clock	Yes	World clock, alarms, timers, stopwatch
Files	File manager	Yes	Tabs, folders pre-organized for you
Tunero	Music Player	Yes	Basic, offline music player that can play local music files. Ability to unlock full music catalog
Terminal	Terminal	Yes	N/A
Task Manager	Task Manager	Yes	Simple + Full Detailed Views, accurate statistics, etc.

Screenshot Tool	Screenshot Tool	Yes	N/A
Addresses	Address Book	Yes	N/A
Store	App Store	Yes	Requires wifi to use
LibreOffice	Office Tool Suite	Proposed	We might use this for office

Other Features

- If an open window is maximized, the Stats Bar at the top and the Taskbar will auto-hide.
 - ◆ To show Stats Bar, move your mouse to the top of the screen
 - ◆ To show Taskbar, move your mouse to the bottom of the screen.
- When resizing a window, a “shadow window” will appear to let users know the difference between the original window size and the new window size.

Changelog

xx/xx/20xx

- Pre-alpha version x.xx.xx released.